Mrs. Pinchot Addresses Kingston Shirt Workers About Joining the Union

Wife of Pennsylvania's Governor Lists Himself as Stern Believer in Unions as Salvation for Laborer.

UNION DEMOCRATIC Explains That American Government is Democratic and That Unions Achieve the Same Ends.

Cornelia Bryce Pinchot, wife of the governor of Pennsylvania, who believes in national unions, Frank D. Roosevelt and finds politics "amusing," addressed an audience of more than 200 persons at the Holy Cross Parish House Monday evening. The audience was composed largely of workers in the shirt factories of Kingston, among whom, along with other shirt workers of the Hudson river valley, an intensive campaign is being waged to promote their organization as part of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, with members of the trades unions of Kingston and a number who came to see and hear the speaker of the evening.

The meeting was sponsored by the Citizens Social Justice committee, of which the Rev. A. Appleton Packard, rector of Holy Cross Church, is the chairman, and who presided at the meeting. Mr. Packard in his introductory remarks said that the committee of which he was chairman unreservedly supported union organization. Speaking as a churchman he quoted from two general statements, one made a few years ago by the Episcopal House of Bishops which "deplored any tendency to limit the discussion of the principle of social justice," and one from the Pope's encyclical to the effect that "Christian working men should be encouraged to form unions."

Mayor C. J. Hesselman was unable to be present, but in his absence City Judge Bernard J. Culliton was present and on behalf of the officials and citizens of Kingston cordially welcomed Mrs. Pinchot.

James Geary, an employee in one of the local factories, on behalf of the shirt workers of Kingston, expressed their appreciation of Mrs. Pinchot's visit to Kingston and of the work she had done for the workers in her home state. He said that some of the workers had apparently been afraid to be seen coming to the meeting, lest they might lose their positions and referred also to rumors that if the workers of Kingston organized the factories would move from the city. He said this latter move would be of no avail as operators would find the same conditions elsewhere as in Kingston. He urged the workers to get together and join the organization, stating that they asked nothing but decent living terms, nothing that the industry could not afford.

Miss Griselda Kuhlman, who represents the Amalgamated Clothing Workers in Kingston, told of the work of the organization, which has a membership of 135,000 in the United States and Canada and has added 30,000 workers during the past year. She said that they did not come to Kingston carrying bombs in their pockets, or to start trouble, but to organize, for the benefit, she said, not only of the workers but of the community as a whole. Miss Kuhlman said that she had not found conditions in Kingston absolutely perfect and referred to girls working in night restaurants for as little as $3 a week. She urged the workers to remember their courageous ancestors who established the town and to live up to their traditions.

Changed Conditions
Mrs. Pinchot opened her address with a discussion of changed economic conditions, from a time, perhaps 50 or 100 years ago, when Kingston was "probably one of the safest places in the world to live in," in days when the "jack-of-all-trades" found no difficulty in supporting himself, when the country was practically self-sufficient. Those days have gone, she said, the speaker, and we have come to a time when communities depend upon each other and upon cooperation. Those were the days when it was necessary to work hard and work long hours. All this has been changed with the advent of steam and machinery and particularly during the past 15 to 20 years has machinery made tremendous strides. "We have passed out of the long hours era," Mrs. Pinchot said, "and the problem now is how to handle material possessions—that there is an enormous accumulation of food, clothing, etc., but that on the other hand the people cannot afford to buy them. She found that food was piling up, but the farmer was starving because he could not get a living price for his products, while at the same time the people were starving because they could not pay even the small price that these same products were selling for."

"People do not understand," said Mrs. Pinchot, "that we have passed from the economics of scarcity to the economics of abundance."

The speaker said that she believed in trade unions and labor unions, "because I am an American," because she believed in democracy all along the line, that workers should have something to say about wages and working conditions. She found this last impossible when the worker went to the boss as an individual.

President Roosevelt Will Talk To Nation Over the Air Thursday

Address Presumably Is To Give Report on the State of the Nation's Affairs—No Intention of Injecting Politics Into Talks—Signs a Number of Bills, Including One For Prison Industries.

Washington, June 26 (AP)—President Roosevelt will talk to the nation over the air at 9:30 p. m., eastern standard time, Thursday, presumably to give a report on the state of the nation's affairs.

He has given a few such talks since he became President on March 4, 1933. The subject of the forthcoming address was not made known. Returning to Washington from a trip into New England, the President emphasized that he had no intention of injecting politics into any talks he may make upon his return across the country from the west coast this summer.

This word was given out through a secretary, Stephen T. Early, as a result of speculation on the political significance of Mr. Roosevelt's cross-country trip this summer during his journey from Hawaii.

After making his talk to the nation, Mr. Roosevelt will clear up his desk on Friday and depart on Saturday from Annapolis on his cruise.

Mr. Roosevelt worked today on government business which must be disposed of this week.

He signed some bills including one authorizing formation of a corporation to insure more effective diversification of prison industries.

"I am glad to approve this bill," he said in a statement, "because it represents a distinct advance in the progress of prison industries."

"Without any important competition with private industry or labor, the government can provide increasingly useful work for those who need to learn how to work and to learn that work in itself is honorable and is a practical substitute for criminal methods of earning one's livelihood."

Mr. Roosevelt has a call at Port Au Prince, Haiti, on his tentative program for the cruise to Hawaii.

Harsh Feeling Voiced Against Gen. Johnson

Hosiery Mills Official Says NRA Head Seeks To Wreck Tennessee Concerns—Mills Closed Down—653 Out Of Work.

Harriman, Tenn., June 26 (AP)—The Harriman Hosiery Mills, carrying the dispute over its blue eagle to a climax, was shut down today and a company official charged that NRA Administrator Hugh S. Johnson "set out to wreck this concern."

T. Asbury Wright, Jr., attorney for the company—one of the largest to lose the blue eagle—made public a letter to General Johnson asserting the company was convinced he intended to wreck it "through boycotting and every other means at your disposal."

The closing of the plant by the company late yesterday threw 653 persons out of work. Mayor J. D. D'Armond said he supposed "the government will have to put the 653 workers who lost their jobs on relief."

Wright, asserting that a copy of the letter was being sent to President Roosevelt, wrote: "We have been unjustly, unfairly and in an un-American manner deprived of our property rights in the blue eagle."

NRA withheld comment in Washington until General Johnson returned to his desk from Walter Reed Hospital. He was expected back today.

Rats Die After Test From Lead Silk

New York, June 26 (AP)—The fate of rats which became ill or died from wearing silk weighted with a lead treatment was described today to the American Home Economics Association.

The silk, said Miss P. Belle Kessinger, is the same material sold over the counter to women, without advertising to warn them that it has been lead treated. She made the experiment with the rats at the Pennsylvania State College, under a fellowship of the American Economic Association.

Not all silks are weighted, and not all the weighted silks are treated with lead. Other metals may be used. Miss Kessinger said tin-weighted silks showed no bad effects on her rats.

Snow in the Sierras.
Mineral, Calif., June 26 (AP)—Snow fell in this region of the Sierra Nevada mountains last night where only a few hours before people were complaining of the heat. The sudden storm left six inches of new snow at the summit of the new Mount Lassen loop highway.

Turk Near Death
Istanbul, June 26 (AP)—Zaro Agha, the Turk who claims to have lived 160 years, was near death today in the Children's Hospital. Physicians said his condition was almost completely failed, his mind continues to wander, and a general weakness persists.

Wingert Elected K. of C. Navigator

Florian P. Wingert was elected faithful navigator of Kingston Assembly, Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus, at the annual election held Monday evening at the Knights of Columbus building on Broadway. Other officers elected were: Faithful captain, Walter Foster; faithful admiral, William O'Reilly; faithful pilot, Thomas Mooney; faithful controller, Allen A. Baker; inner sentinel, George Botchovitz; and outer sentinel, Thomas Gorman. Many of the sailors on the Destroyer Talbot visited the K. of C. rooms Monday evening and enjoyed refreshments with the members of the Assembly.

Kingston High School Senior Class Of 1934 Observes Class Day

Graduating Class of About 300 Members Holds Modest But Interesting Class Day Which Was Greatly Enjoyed—Class Orator Speaks of Municipal Theatre.

"Class Day," the graduates own day, was celebrated at the Kingston High School Monday evening by the Senior Class of 1934, in a very large way, both literally and figuratively. But there were pros and cons to the "very large way." The honor and glory of having much the largest class in the history of any high school or academy in the city had this grievous drawback: only about half of the graduating class could be seated on the stage for Class Day, which considering the gala attire of the young people was quite too bad.

This class of about 300 members, however, was satisfied to hold a modest class day, but an especially interesting one, in fact one that even a casual guest of the evening was bound to enjoy. For that the class of 1934 is to be heartily congratulated.

The master of ceremonies for the evening was Haebe Maroon, the Senior Class president, who welcomed the many guests of the class and explained that he had a secret to tell them. It was this: The Class of 1934 was the greatest class ever to graduate from K. H. S. While that fact was not new to the class, they proposed in their Class Day program to prove that fact to their friends, skeptics and members of other classes present. They did.

Mr. Maroon then introduced the first speaker of the evening, Miss Edna Partlan, the class historian. Miss Partlan took the unique and clever plan of putting across the class history as that of a play, "We Went to High School," given at the Kingston Municipal Playhouse during the past four years. In that play she found as in all good drama, comedy, pathos, a happy ending. She also found the acting of the 200 performers to be expert, considering the smallness of the stage. Haebe Maroon was the leader and was assisted by the class officers in the management of the play. Miss Partlan found the settings realistic.

In acts I and II the actors were more or less amateurs but real acting came into play in Act III when the spotlights were turned on some of the star players. From then on, the drama moved rapidly and "We Went to High School" assumed the proportions of farce, Shakespearean comedy and some of the scenes were depicted. In true Shakespearean fashion there was "A Play Within a Play," "Seven Keys to Baldpate," a real success. Music was added and "Pinafore" was given. Later there was a change of managers and Mr. Van Ingen was sent to the Community Theatre, while Mr. Dunn became the Municipal Theatre manager. They hoped that they had impressed the backers of the theatre, the people of the city of Kingston, with the fact that each one of the actors had tried to do his or her best, including the managers of the Maroon and Dame Maroon, the theatre bulletins. In closing Miss Partlan said that the play would close on the following evening, with entertainment, soft lights and music, at the Municipal Auditorium, and all hoped that the sequel to the entire performance would be as successful as the play itself. Miss Partlan closed with a very clever "Epilogue."

The Class Critic.
Allan McCollum, the Class Critic, was good-naturedly caustic in his criticism of his own class, which he seemed to consider as a duty. Unprepared assignments, razzing upper classes, playing pranks, snobishness and a few such defects he found among his classmates which might make them a pride and joy to their parents but a pain in the neck to their fellow students. Then, realizing the critic found some things to praise, the excellence of their musicians, and poets, etc. In saying good-bye he hoped that they might have left behind them something for the future to emulate.

N. Y. State Will Ask For Money to Light Peak of Last Chance Mountain

Senator Feld Proposes To Put Revolving Lights on all High Peaks in the Catskill and Adirondack Mountains.

$30,000 NEEDED Commission Will Consider Broadening Airways Weather Service in New York State.

Albany, N. Y., June 26 (AP)—New York state will ask the Federal government this week for money to light the peak of Last Chance mountain, where an airliner crashed with loss of seven lives June 9.

Senator A. Spencer Feld, new chairman of the State Aviation Commission, will ask PWA officials in Washington for $30,000 to build a beacon on this and 19 other mountains.

Senator Feld said it was proposed to put revolving lights on all high peaks in the Catskills and Adirondack mountains which lie below or near the main air lines.

The crew of three and the four passengers in a Newark-to-Buffalo plane died on Last Chance mountain. In thick weather the pilot failed by a scant 100 feet to clear the top of this peak in the lower Catskills.

"We also will try to find some way of building a central radio beacon somewhere in central New York," Senator Feld said, "one that would serve as a guide to any plane, regardless of whether it was on one of the main routes."

Senator Feld, a New York Democrat, succeeded former Senator J. Griswold Webb of Poughkeepsie, a Republican, as chairman of the Aviation Commission.

The commission probably will meet at Albany during the special session of the legislature in July.

Another matter it will consider is the need for broadening the airways weather service in New York state. The proposal has been made that state police collect hourly weather data and send it to weather stations at the main airports.

Senator Feld said the list of mountains on which beacons might be built would not be definitely selected until the commission's next meeting, which probably will be at Albany in July. He said the beacons probably could be installed for $1,500 each.

One airway official said today that among the peaks on which beacons would be helpful were the following:

In the Adirondacks: Mount Morris, 3,163 feet; Ampersand Mountain, 3,365; Mount Airy, MacIntyre, 5,112; Santonoi Peak, 4,621; Mount Marcy, 5,334; Whiteface Mountain, 4,872.

In the Catskills: Slide Mountain, 4,200; Panther Mountain, 3,760; Balsam Mountain, 3,565; Black Dome Mountain, 3,290.

GETTLE RECEIVES NOTES DEMANDING ATONEMENT

Los Angeles, June 26 (AP)—The William F. Gettle kidnapping case was revived today with the disclosure that the Beverly Hills oil millionaire has received extortion notes, demanding $6,000 to "atone" for his court testimony against two women.

Threats that his home would be dynamited and his family injured if he failed to comply were contained in the notes.

Directions were left for depositing the money in a hiding place. Under the instructions with a dummy package, but no one appeared to take it. The women in the case, Loretta Woody and Mona Gallighan, were convicted of conspiring to misuse the mails in connection with a $60,000 ransom demand, sent to Gettle's family.

The women were sent to a government reformatory. Three male companions of the women are in prison for life.

Gettle, abducted May 9 from his Arcadia ranch, was held five days before detectives succeeded in tracking down his kidnappers.

SECOND SON IS BORN TO THE GENE TUNNEYS.

New York, June 26 (AP)—A second son was born today to Mr. and Mrs. Gene Tunney.

The former world's heavyweight champion said the new arrival weighed eight pounds, eleven ounces. Mother and son both were "doing splendidly," Tunney added. The baby was born at 6:44 a. m. (E. S. T.).

The Tunneys' first son, Gene Lander Tunney was born in November, 1931.

Nazi Rulers May Give Sharp Action to Nation To Settle All Rumbles

Hitler Group May Move to Eliminate Auxiliary Branch of War Veterans' League—Goering Says Hitler is Satisfied.

Berlin, June 26 (AP)—The government, hearing for almost the first time since Adolf Hitler's ascendancy as chancellor, the rumbles of dissatisfaction in some sections with Nazism, threatened sharp action today.

Government officials indicated they would move for "complete extinction" of the Auxiliary Branch of the War Veterans' League.

Recent rumors said the league held secret plans to replace the Hitler regime with a military dictatorship. Nazi secret police reported "reactionism" in the league and a nationwide plot to overthrow the Nazi regime.

Nearly all members of the Veterans' branch were belonged to the Steel Helmet troops.

The Veterans' League is considered the "shock troops" of conservatives and a rallying force for junkers covertly opposing the Nazi regime.

Most Steel Helmet members have clung to their hope of a monarchial restoration and military class rule.

Goering Raps Monarchists.

Hamburg, Germany, June 26 (AP)—"We have Hitler" thundered Germany's minister without portfolio, Herman Wilhelm Goering, "and we are satisfied."

A huge mass meeting which gathered last night to hear Goering hurl an ultimatum to a rising monarchist expression, gave the minister protection applause after his address.

The minister's remarks struck sharply and directly at monarchist talk, and called for unity behind Chancellor Hitler.

Goering's address was taken as an official answer to conservative opposition to the Nazi regime which broke into the open recently when Vice Chancellor Franz Von Papen sharply criticized features of the government program.

Von Papen's remarks were endorsed by President Von Hindenburg.

Police Uncover Big Firebug Ring in West

Arson Ring Also Said To Have Engaged in Kidnaping And Extortion In And Around Chicago.

Chicago, June 26 (AP)—Police, holding 17 persons, including one woman, believed today they had uncovered a million dollar ring of "firebugs" that engaged in kidnaping and extortion as sidelines.

An investigation of a recent attempt to extort $2,000 from Harry Welch, a Toledo, O., merchant, led to the disclosures of the activities of the arson ring which also allegedly made a business of abducting and extorting money from its own customers after they had collected their fire insurance.

Welch, who was kidnaped 11 days ago, told police he was branded by hot irons and forced to call his mother in Toledo requesting that the $2,000 be sent to Chicago. Instead she called an attorney who notified Chicago officials. The result was a search for Rudolph Pisan.

Pisan was captured with Valentine Notari and John Brown in the act, police said, of setting fire to a building last Friday night. Pisan's mother, Mrs. Elsie Pisan, was also apprehended.

Officers said insurance companies had been defrauded of $1,000,000 by the gang and that some of its members had confessed starting 23 fires.

FLORIDA SENATOR PLACES RECORD BEFORE ELECATORATE.

Jacksonville, Fla., June 26 (AP)—Park Trammell, Florida's Junior United States Senator and chairman of the Senate naval affairs committee, today placed his 15-year record at Washington before the electorate today for a test.

The contest between Senator Trammell and Claude Pepper, Tallahassee attorney, held the center of interest in the second Democratic primary. Nomination is equivalent to election.

There were two other state-wide races, involving four candidates for two railroad commission places, and numerous county and state legislative contests.

The polls open at 5 o'clock (Eastern Standard Time) and close at sundown.

Illinois Rifer Dies.

Southern Illinois State Penitentiary, Menard, Ill., June 26 (AP)—Warren Little, 25, paid with his life in the electric chair today for the slaying last September 13 of Deaver Carlton, McLeansboro, Ill., barber.

Moscow, June 26 (AP)—Charles Courtney, New York master locksmith who risked his life in an undersea investigation of the wreck of the British cruiser Hampshire, said today he was satisfied it did not carry $10,000,000 in gold (approximately $10,000,000) when a German mine sent it to the bottom of the North Sea.

It was on the Hampshire that Lord Kitchener went to his death.

Courtney said the salvage company with which he is associated would make no further effort to regain the alleged treasure.

He flew here from Bergen, Norway, to interview a British subject who supervised the loading of the Hampshire before her fatal voyage. After talking with this man, Courtney said he was convinced there was nothing of such value in the Hampshire's hold that would justify further exploration of the wreck, lying 12 miles off the Orkneys.

"It would cost $250,000 to raise the Hampshire," he explained. "Only a great treasure would induce a private company to undertake the task."

"Lives and money would be risked in a search for a large gold cargo, but I am persuaded that reports the Hampshire carried $10,000,000 when she sank are unfounded. My associates and I made such a thorough investigation that we are now certain Kitchener's craft was not the treasure ship."

"The British government may care to raise the Hampshire some day just as the United States raised the Maine to clear up the mystery of its destruction, but there is no inducement for private companies."

After a two-day stay in Moscow, Courtney left today for Germany. He said he had been asked to open ancient chests in a monastic house at Klagenfurt, Austria, and probably would go there shortly.

Admiralty Unconcerned.

Courtney ten days ago visited the British admiralty and offered to tell the position of the wreck if given cooperation in salvage operations, including information as to what cargo the Hampshire carried. The admiralty replied that it knows where the cruiser lies.

TODAY'S ELECTIONS BEAR IMPORTANCE IN IRELAND

Dublin, Irish Free State, June 26 (AP)—The Irish Free State balloted in local elections today on the outcome of which a general election and the future of the government of President Eamon De Valera may hang.

The elections followed a bitter campaign in which De Valera and his foe, General Eoin O'Duffy, stumped the country. O'Duffy, leader of opposition "Blue Shirt" forces, predicted his party, Fine Gael, would win 20 out of 23 county councils.

Such a reversal for the government might well lead to a national election.

SEIZE TWO ALLEGED SLIT MACHINES AT RUBY

Trooper Arthur Reilly and Deputy Sheriff Charles McCullough on Monday seized two alleged slit machines at Rose's Inn, Ruby, Mrs. Lena Rose was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Walter Webber at Lake Katrine, charged with possession of the machines. The case was set down for a hearing at 3 o'clock on Thursday afternoon.

Chicago, June 26 (AP)—James J. Walker, former mayor of New York City, was called in London a $100,000 offer for a five weeks personal appearance with his wife, Bett Compton, at the World's Fair.

The offer was made last night by Lew Dufour, manager of the Hawaiian Gardens concession.

Boreal Armies Still Embattled in Chaco

Buenos Aires, June 26 (AP)—After nearly a fortnight of steady fighting, 100,000 Bolivian and Paraguayan troops were still locked today in a prolonged battle for Fort Ballivian, Bolivian stronghold in the Chaco Boreal.

Because of Paraguayan banking attempts the line of battle is gradually extending northward until the Paraguayans are attacking intermittently up and down the front.

Conflicting claims continued to come from La Paz and Asuncion, with the latter denying Bolivian assertions that Paraguayan troops were repulsed after a 12-day drive in the La Paz sector.

Treasury Receipts.

Washington, June 26 (AP)—The position of the treasury June 23 was: Receipts, $5,664,243.74; expenditures, $15,162,321.25; balance, $2,654,896,822.84; customs receipts for the month, $15,244,571.21. Receipts for the fiscal year since July 1 were $3,664,444,422.72; expenditures, $5,512,423,824.40, including $2,878,727,419.15 of emergency expenditures; excess of expenditures, $2,844,475,401.25; gold assets, $7,842,647,313.21.

Far Eastern Problems Grab the Spotlight in World Naval Situation

Tokyo Suddenly Decides To Play Far More Active Role in Sessions Preliminary to the 1935 Conference.

RUSSIA BIG FACTOR Expect Anglo-American Conversations Will Be Scheduled For Tomorrow's Session.

London, June 26 (AP)—With the Anglo-American conversations in a desultory stage, Far Eastern problems grabbed the spotlight today in the world naval situation.

Word reached London that Tokyo suddenly had decided to play a far more active role in the sessions preliminary to the 1935 conference than was expected and that two admirals are being sent here to take over the technical end of the parleys.

It was understood that Tokyo's eleventh-hour decision was caused chiefly by Great Britain's statement of its maximum naval case last week together with the speech made Saturday by Sir Rolton Meridith Eyres Monsell, first lord of the admiralty, in which he said that international disarmament has become a dream.

Another factor—old but most important—is the question of Russia's admission to the preliminary discussions and to the 1935 conference, due to the constant effort in Moscow and Paris to bring about a British invitation to the Soviets. The British have not changed their policy yet—they insist Russia and Germany will not be invited—but diplomatic circles doubt whether Great Britain is willing to chance a fight with France over the point after the quarrel between Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, and Louis Barthou, French foreign minister, at Geneva over arms matters.

Russian circles here indicated that Moscow expects Far Eastern problems to play the biggest part of the 1935 conference despite Tokyo's efforts to keep political questions out of it.

While foreign quarters continue to mull over Great Britain's naval policy, British circles, which have just found out about the navy's wants, have begun a guessing game as to the number of new cruisers and other light craft the government seeks.

While some unofficial British circles hear that Great Britain wants to build 30 new cruisers, in case the 1935 conference breaks up without an agreement, the consensus is that the number wanted is less than 20.

There were no Anglo-American conversations today, but it was regarded likely that discussion will be scheduled for tomorrow.

ALBANY REMAINS SILENT ON MOTHEE'S CLEMENCY

Albany, N. Y., June 26 (AP)—Mrs. Anna Antonio, dark-eyed 28-year-old mother, has only two days to live unless Governor Lehman acts to save her from execution Thursday night for the murder of her husband.

Not since Ruth Snyder died with Judd Grey at Sing Sing in 1928 has a woman gone to the electric chair in New York. But thus far no word of clemency has come from the executive chamber.

Several facts complicate the interest in Mrs. Antonio's case.

Two men, Sam Faracci and Vincent Saetta, was convicted with her and are also under sentence of death. The state contended Faracci and Saetta stabbed and shot Sam Antonio to death on a promise of $800 from Mrs. Antonio.

These men also have appealed for clemency. The attorney for one of them told the governor he could not consistently commute Mrs. Antonio's sentence without commuting those of the two men.

Mrs. Antonio has three small children, 3, 5 and 10.

SEVENTH ATTEMPT MADE ON LIFE OF GANDHI

Poona, India, June 26 (AP)—The Mahatma Gandhi, frail little leader of millions although he holds no public office, has escaped another attempt to assassinate him.

When an automobile arrived at a hall yesterday where Gandhi was scheduled to speak a Boy Scout band struck up a tune and the crowd cheered.

A man made his way to the car, tossed a bomb into it and fled. All five passengers were injured, but the Mahatma was not one of them. He arrived a few minutes later.

"This outrage will not injure my cause, but will make it stronger," said Gandhi, describing it as the seventh attempt on his life.

TWENTY YEARS AFTER WORLD WAR

Louvain, Re-Born, Conceals Its War Scars

This is the second in a series of six articles picturing conditions 20 years after the shot that started the World War was fired, June 28, 1914.

Louvain, Belgium (P)—Out of the ashes of old Louvain, sacked by the Germans in 1914, a new city has arisen.

Stately buildings and broad thoroughfares have obliterated the scars of war, though the memories of that fateful August are seared deeply on the minds of many of Louvain's inhabitants.

It was 20 years ago this August 19 that the invaders swept into the city and it was on the seventh day of their occupation that whole streets were set afire, civilians killed and standing buildings sacked.

Terror reigned for a week. Machine guns commanded whole streets; fire and the sword destroyed the city's treasures; householders cowered in their rooms.

When at last, on September 2, the firing ceased, 1,120 houses situated in the center of the city had been burned; more than 100 persons of all ages and both sexes had been killed, and many of the glories of Louvain were gone.

Bum Steer
Philadelphia—The steer looked in to his crystal ball Friday.

Always Buy Mobiloil

Quality Pays for Itself...in a Smoother Car that's More Fun to Drive!

JUST ASK YOUR WIFE! She may not pretend to know oils or automobiles—but she has shopped enough to know it pays to buy the good things!

Your modern motor is twice as dependent on oil as cars were a few years ago. That's because parts fit tighter and operating temperatures are higher.

So an oil like Mobiloil—an oil that is both tough and heat resistant—avoids a lot of troubles. It reduces repair bills—holds down upkeep costs. It keeps your car smooth and sweet running—because it's always on the job, protecting those fast-moving, close-fitting parts.

A single repair bill avoided can more than pay for changing to Mobiloil. Give your car the benefit of Mobiloil quality—particularly if it's a new car this year. Just stop wherever you see the Mobiloil sign when you need oil.

Dance patrons at Golden Rule Inn had an agreeable surprise in the evening, as the orchestra, according to announcement of the management, were to perform on Saturday night, and judging from the fine playing, will prove themselves the best orchestra in the Hudson Valley.

They play a special Wednesday night dance this week, and again on Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights.

The White House was represented at the inn last Saturday night by Martin McIntyre and party, who moved up from President Roosevelt's home at Hyde Park. Mr. McIntyre, who is secretary to the President, was generous in praise of the music, entertainment and environment.

Bridal Veil Old Custom

The bride veil is the relic of an ancient superstition dating back to the time of the Greeks and Romans, if not much earlier. It was first worn to conceal and protect the bride from evil spirits which it was thought would harm her if she were not veiled.

Search Being Made For Missing Youth

ANTHONY DIAMOND

A statewide search has failed to reveal the whereabouts of Anthony Diamond, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Diamond of 225 South William street, Newburgh, who ran away two weeks ago to join the circus.

Anthony decided on a circus career after viewing the Rubin and Cherry exposition which played in Newburgh. The show also played here for a week under the auspices of the Excelsior Horse Company. A message received by the Kingston police to pick Tony up arrived too late as the show had left Kingston. The boy has no money with him and his parents are worried over his continued absence. He was a carrier for the Newburgh News.

Kingston High School Observes Class Day

recited a romantic poem of her own writing, "In the Land Beyond the Dawn."

Address to Faculty

It was Robert Gere's fortune to address the faculty which he did quite seriously and thoughtfully, saying "Every normal person must realize the influence of all outsiders on his own life. Some one well said, 'I am a part of everyone I meet.' The young man found that the faculty of their high school had come the closest to influencing their lives of anyone outside their family. As students each was a piece of rare marble and the faculty had been the sculptors. He asked them just how good sculptors they had proven to be. He concluded that they had carved well for they had given of their best not only to influence their conscious but their sub-conscious minds, and perhaps they might have thought it was a case of unconscious minds where the freshmen were concerned. Evidently the carving had been to the liking of the pieces of marble for Mr. Gere stated that the faculty had helped them infinitely and they appreciated all of their efforts sincerely and counted them as high and extended their best wishes to them, hoping for them increased intelligence on the part of coming freshmen.

Substitute Prophet

The Class Prophet was to have been Miss Celia Miller, but Mr. Maroon announced that she had been a rather poor prophet for she had failed to prophesy her own inability to be present for class day. Miss Dorothy Kaplan had kindly consented to act as a substitute prophet. Being the editor of Dame Rumor, it was quite easy for Miss Kaplan to prophesy the future of many members of the class from the letters she had received from them in her editorial capacity. The letters that she read were very clever and full of jests and gibes at class members, calling forth gales of laughter.

The class of 1934 could boast a male quartet and that quartet composed of Donald Clark, Harold Darling, Lester Finley and Fulton Main, accompanied by Miss Ruth Flicker sang very acceptably "Trees" and "Sylvia."

The Class Orator

Daniel McDonald was the Class Orator and put forth an able and convincing plea for a Municipal Theatre under the "New Deal." Mr. McDonald told of the growth of the drama as it has been developing in our schools on the basis of becoming interested in the things we study. He told of the growth in our western schools, particularly of the Little Theatre which were tributary to the Western College theatres. The young man found much less of an appreciation of the value of the drama in the east though Vassar, Harvard and Yale were doing much along that line. He decried the fact that in the Kingston High School all of their plays had been given to raise money for one enterprise or another connected with the school. Showing how many character building features lurked in the study of the drama and the drama's necessary cooperation with other arts and crafts, he begged the Board of Education to help in some way to operate the High School so that this money-raising problem need not fall on the students of drama in the school. He closed with a further plea for a Municipal Theatre as well as a Municipal Auditorium in Kingston.

The rest of the program was devoted to the usual fun and nonsense with a grain of sense that is the especial prerogative of Class Day exercises. David Friedman gave the Senior Class "Advice to the Juniors," with gentle sarcasm and Donald McDonald offered much evidence in rebuttal that was excellent in his "Junior Response."

The program closed with the Class Legacy admirably given by Noel Thompson, who had gifts to give to many of her classmates not mentioned in the prophecy. She too brought forth shouts of laughter and much merriment with her legacy she gave as the parting act of the K. H. S. Class of 1934, per se.

Blonds Have Larger Feet

Maybe it's an inconsequential thing to bring up, and a little rough on certain persons, but the truth must out—blonds have bigger feet than brunets. This scientific note is the outcome of an interesting and novel experiment made with the more than 300 shoe girls working in three musical pictures in Hollywood. Fitting shoes for the girls proved that blonds—real ones—wear shoes a full size larger than brunets.

THE FAMILY CAR

"I NEED the car to-night, ma. All right?"
 "Don't give it to him, ma. He knows perfectly well that I have to have it to-night. He wants to take Priscilla to the dance. That leaves me and Charlie out. He had the car last time. It's my turn. He never even thinks I might want the car. Just himself."

"What's the matter with Frank getting his father's car to take you? Why should dad pay for a car for him? He has enough to do to pay for his own children. Don't you worry about them, ma."

"I'm as much dad's child as you are. I've rights as well as you have. He had the car last time, ma."

"What of it? Doesn't the boy have to supply the car to take the girl? What's the matter with Frank?"

"His father says he is too young to drive a car unless he is with him and he can't go with him to-night."

"Some excuse. If he's old enough to take you to a dance."

"There, there, Charles. Your sister has some right in the matter. I'm not sure that Mr. Carson isn't wise in refusing to allow Frank to go out alone at night."

"There. Now I hope you're satisfied. You've got mother scared to death. For that I hope you never get the car. You needn't be afraid of my driving, ma. I've never even scratched a mud guard. Now have I? And I'll bet I've driven more miles with that car than dad has. He always lets me drive when I'm with him. If I couldn't drive I wouldn't ask to use the car. I have some sense."

"Well, I'm sure I don't know. Sometimes I get so worked up about the whole business, one saying one thing and another the other thing—I wish there were no cars on this earth."

Many a parent has wished the same thing. Watching the younger generation rolling by I've come to the conclusion that they are as much at home behind the wheels as their elders are. A boy in his late teens is as good a driver as he will ever be. If he is a driver at all. His eye is keen and his nerves are steady and he knows no fear. That's more than we can say for ourselves.

Accidents? I don't know but from casual observation the young people have no more of them than their elders.

These young people were born into a world of motors. To them they are as commonplace as horses were to their elders. We are still in awe of the miracle they represent but the children see nothing unusual in them. They fill up the tank and turn the switch in much the same spirit that their fathers fed Dobbin and hitched him up for a ride.

Responsibility is the test for the youthful driver. What are his habits, his characteristics, his health? How responsible is he? Character, not age, decides these questions about driving cars. Going out at night, using headlights and taking over the responsibilities of maturity. No character, no privileges. The standard might be applied to some of the adults without detriment to the social fabric.

Washington, June 25.—Mr. Hull was only fooling recently when he invited the British to pay the war debts in goods instead of money.

It is true that the state secretary is a Sunday school man and does not know much about poker. But his deficiency in that respect is more than made up by President Roosevelt. They got their heads together on the latest debt case, basing it on what is known in both diplomatic and poker circles as "calling the bluff" of the British.

As a matter of fact, the only way in which this whole inner war debt situation differs from the average high class poker game is that in playing war debt, nobody pays. The honor of winning is the only stake.

Consequently, no negotiations are imminent for payment in goods, money or cigar store coupons and none is likely for a while.

Mr. Roosevelt and Hull did not really believe there would be. The truth is their private economic advisers told them before they wrote the note that it would be virtually impossible to work out a transfer of goods at this time.

There is one simple insurmountable reason. It is that the British government has no goods of its own. To pay us in goods it would have to buy them from private producers. But at what price?

If he bought tin for the fixed world price and transferred it to us without a profit, she might as well transfer the money. If he tried to make a profit on the transaction, the price at which we would receive the tin would make it too high. We might better buy the tin from the private producers ourselves.

Either way, there would be no sense to the transaction.

The only reason the Roosevelt-Hull poker team invited payment in goods is because the British had insisted they could not transfer money. Mr. Roosevelt and Hull did not intend that their call of that bluff should be taken as seriously as it was. The newspapers picked that news item out of a single sentence in the body of the Hull note and made headlines out of it.

Mr. Roosevelt was so petrified that his spokesmen suggested to newsmen they were over-playing the suggestion. The White House hinted that it was not by any means an important feature of the note.

There are economists in the state department who believe that, within a year or two, when world trade relations get somewhere near normal, transfers may be worked out on the basis of paying goods. It is, of course, ridiculous to think that any substantial portion of the debt

New Laws Strive For Recovery And Reform

A series of these articles of which this is the second discusses: What precedents did the twenty-third Congress establish? What did it accomplish? How may its legislation affect the average person? What were its relations with the President?

By FRANK WELLER

In addition to the potential power in late-day legislation, the twenty-third congress gave President Roosevelt the most formidable array of personal power ever granted a chief executive in peacetime.

The first session armed him with authority to meet, without recourse to congress, almost any emergency considered as arising from the depression. The second empowered him to dictate the gold value of the dollar, transfer all federal reserve gold to the government and set up a stabilization fund to keep the dollar valued between 50 and 60 cents.

It "permitted" him to purchase and coin silver at will until the metal base of currency would be 75 per cent gold and 25 per cent silver.

It authorized him to raise or lower any tariff on dutiable imports 50 per cent without consent of congress and to "bargain" for tariff concessions with foreign countries.

It gave him power to spend, largely as he saw fit, a grand total of about seven billion dollars for relief and recovery purposes.

Defeated, too. On the other hand, congress rode rough-shod over Mr. Roosevelt's veto of the bill to increase veterans' benefits and the pay of federal employees.

It forced him to compromise on his plan to settle labor disputes; the more drastic features of the securities act of 1933; his apathy toward silver legislation; some of the "teeth" he wanted in the stock market bill, and on the bill to expand Indian rights.

Congress refused to strengthen

Briefly, the chief recovery measures of the second session were:

Nationalization of gold: Voted in the United States treasury title to all the nation's monetary stocks of gold. Authorized the President to regulate the dollar at $3 to 40 per cent of its existing statutory gold equivalent and set up a two billion dollar stabilization fund to keep it there through the purchase and sale of domestic and foreign currencies.

Purchase of silver: Authorized the President to purchase and coin silver, at his discretion, until there should be $1 of silver to $3 of gold behind currency issues.

Tariff bargaining: Permitted the President for a period of three years to negotiate tariff agreements with foreign governments, trading concessions for concessions in the interest of export expansion. He may raise or lower existing rates 50 per cent on dutiable imports.

Debt relief: Permitted cities and local taxing units an emergency period of two years to petition the courts for readjustment of debts if 51 per cent of creditors agree. Guaranteed principal and interest on four billion dollars of farm mortgage and home mortgage bonds authorized last year. Permitted bankruptcy corporations to reorganize with the consent of a majority of their creditors under guidance of the courts.

Farm relief: Created the federal farm mortgage corporation, with a capital of $200,000,000, to aid in the refinancing of farm debts. Made available to the governor of the farm credit administration a revolving fund of $40,000,000. Appropriated $25,000,000 for drought relief. Added seven basic commodities—cattle, sugar, peanuts, rye, flax, barley and grain sorghums—to the crops controlled by AAA. Subjected cotton and tobacco growers to penalties for violating contracted production quotas.

Grants farmers a six-year moratorium on mortgage foreclosure if crops consider request valid.

Business recovery: Created a fund of $500,000,000 for direct loans to industry by the reconstruction finance corporation and the federal reserve banks. Authorized issuance of two billion dollars in bonds by the home owners' loan corporation which might be sold or exchanged for mortgages. Guaranteed one billion dollars of loans and single mortgages for home building and repair.

ALL-BRAN MADE HOW REGULAR AS CLOCK

Delicious Cereal Corrects His Constipation

We quote from his voluntary and enthusiastic letter: "After reading your advertisement, I decided to use ALL-BRAN. I had been taking pills right along. But now I don't have to take pills."

"I take ALL-BRAN every morning, and am as regular as the clock. It has done me a lot of good."—Stephen Higgins, 51 S. Main St., South Norwalk, Conn.

Common constipation frequently causes headaches, loss of appetite and energy. Yet this condition can be overcome, usually, by eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

Tests show this delicious cereal provides "bulk" and vitamin B to aid elimination. ALL-BRAN is also rich in iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently this clears out the intestinal wastes.

Isn't this safer than taking harmful patent medicines? Two table-spoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases, with each meal. If seriously ill, see your doctor. ALL-BRAN makes no claim to be a "cure-all."

Enjoy ALL-BRAN as a cereal with milk or cream. Use it also in making fluffy muffins and breads, etc. Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

The clips at the side of the dress are of white metal, as are the buttons on the jacket.

Yellow Brightens the Night

New York—It seems a long time since yellow had any after dark recognition. Therefore its reappearance these nights makes news.

White, black, blue and pink have, in the order named, been the big thing for night hawks for so long that it is quite exciting to discover a tendency toward yellow.

One infers that it made its re-entry under the patronage of the citron family and their close associates, chartreuse and abianthe. Greens that were all but yellow logically enough became intermingled with both shades begun to be more definite, until now we have a clear, pure yellow which extends itself into lovely orange tones. We also have greens that are bluish, like robin's egg and the new duck egg shades.

Yellow has languished by night because of its popularity as a sports color. Women do want a change, of course, hence yellow went down with the sun and rose with it.

And speaking of yellow, who isn't pleased to find the Leghorn and Tuscan straws back again? Straws that have a traditional affinity with velvet, especially black velvet. Such straws are usually easy to wear, both because they are flattering and because they are neutral enough to be worn with virtually everything. Now that dinner hats are so much in vogue, there is a tendency to make them either of the finer straws, crin especially, or of lace. The great exception to this rule is black taffeta which is a tremendous favorite with the type of woman who leaves flowers and Watteau effects and such to younger women, yet hesitates about choosing lace because in her day lace hats were almost solely the property of matrons. Not so today, however.

THE YELLOW PERIL

This evening gown of lime yellow chiffon has an interesting cape of soft fabric, which is futed at the top by a deep smoked yoke repeated on the dress itself. The bottom of the cape is gathered in and bloused. Silk black-eyed susans make a stomach-girdle that is broader in front.

AND SO SMART! YOU NEVER TAKE CHANCES ON GETTING UNATTRACTIVE COSMETIC SKIN

Ruth knows a thing or two about LOVELINESS

She removes cosmetics the Hollywood way—guards against unattractive Cosmetic Skin

EVERY girl has a right to be happy about her skin—to keep it velvety smooth and soft. And yet many a girl is actually heretic to blame for skin that is coarse—drab—unlovely.

She thinks she removes cosmetics thoroughly, but actually she leaves bits of stale cosmetics in the pores to choke them. Soon she discovers enlarged pores—tiny blemishes—blackheads, perhaps. This choking of the pores has caused the warning signals of Cosmetic Skin to appear.

Cosmetics Harmless if removed this way

To guard against this distressing modern complexion trouble, thousands of women are adopting Hollywood's beauty care. Lux Toilet Soap is made to remove cosmetics thoroughly. Its ACTIVE lather sinks deeply into the pores, swiftly carries away every vestige of dust, dirt, stale cosmetics.

Before you put on fresh make-up during the day—ALWAYS before you go to bed at night, remove stale make-up thoroughly with Lux Toilet Soap. Then you can protect your skin—keep it lovely.

Of course I use rouge and powder, but I use Lux Toilet Soap so faithfully I'll never have Cosmetic Skin

The World's Greatest Need I am a Power, a Giant, a King; He who will follow me, wins everything; I have found Fortune and brought her to men; I have forced Failure back into her den; I have made the roadway that leads up to Fame; I teach a man how to carve out his name; On history's tablets to stand for an age; I can make warrior, rich man, or sage; 'Tis I who can conquer the trouble we're in; I give the courage that helps men to win; I quiet sorrow and bring peace to bliss; He who will follow, achieves any end; For I humble work am man's truest friend.

Tips on Contract

By TOM O'NEIL

Flusce One, Squasce Other Three kings hardly warrant a double of a grand slam contract without other indications of trick-taking possibilities. A double in the hope of making at least one of the kings is likely to give a good declarer a clue to success.

An opponent of Mrs. Paul Lynch of Kew Gardens, N. Y., learned that lesson when she made a grand plan after quite optimistic bidding. The double marked the way to successful shuffles preparatory to a squeeze. Here was the hand:

NORTH		WEST		EAST		SOUTH
AKQ43	AKQ97	AKQ43	AKQ97	AKQ43	AKQ97	AKQ43	AKQ97
AKQ43	AKQ97	AKQ43	AKQ97	AKQ43	AKQ97	AKQ43	AKQ97
AKQ43	AKQ97	AKQ43	AKQ97	AKQ43	AKQ97	AKQ43	AKQ97
AKQ43	AKQ97	AKQ43	AKQ97	AKQ43	AKQ97	AKQ43	AKQ97

Over South's opening bid of one heart, North, with a great fit in hearts, forced with two spades. Use of the four and five no trump conventions resulted in a seven-heart bid by South. West doubled. The spade and diamond suits are too shaky for a grand slam contract, though a little slam should be reached.

West opened the club king, which was won by South's ace. The dismond queen was led and West covered with the king. Why? Obviously either because West held the ten of diamonds protected or he hoped to promote the ten in East's hand. After winning the diamond ace and putting herself back in the South hand with a heart, Mrs. Lynch successfully summed the spade queen and led the jack of diamonds. Resulting in the South hand again with a heart, the declarer ruffed the eight of clubs in the North hand then played out all the hearts.

The question was whether the nine of diamonds could be made to take a trick or whether a low spade in the North hand could be set up and the diamond nine discarded upon it. The position of the nine-spot was a menace over East, forcing him to keep the ten. If in keeping the ten he had to unguard spades all would be well.

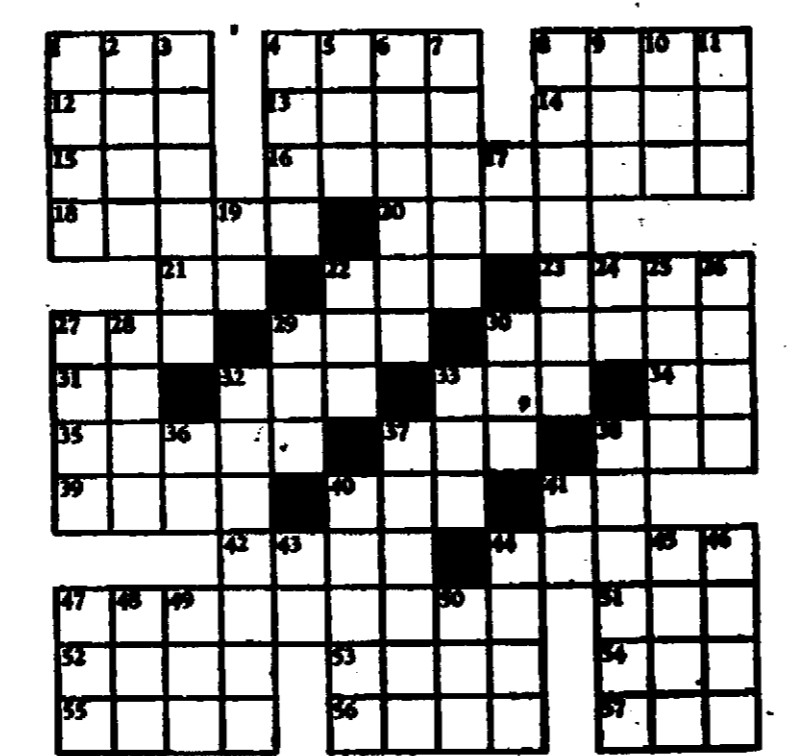

After all the trumps but one had been played the situation was:

NORTH		WEST		EAST		SOUTH
AKQ43	AKQ97	AKQ43	AKQ97	AKQ43	AKQ97	AKQ43	AKQ97
AKQ43	AKQ97	AKQ43	AKQ97	AKQ43	AKQ97	AKQ43	AKQ97
AKQ43	AKQ97	AKQ43	AKQ97	AKQ43	AKQ97	AKQ43	AKQ97
AKQ43	AKQ97	AKQ43	AKQ97	AKQ43	AKQ97	AKQ43	AKQ97

On the lead of the heart three, West discarded his last club and the four of spades was shed North. East let go a spade and the last two tricks were taken with the ace and six of spades. And so the contract was made by finessing West and squeezing East. An attempt to set up a spade in the North hand by ruffs would have encountered entry difficulties.

June Term of County Court Closed Monday

By Calendar of Civil Cases Vanished on the Call. Most of the Cases Going Over Terms—Several Cases Disposed Of.

The June term of County Court closed on Monday afternoon and the jurors were excused from further service. The fact that the jury was present to hear cases had been instrumental in effecting settlements which would not have been made had there been no jurors present. The presence of the jury in court had been responsible for many pleas of guilty in criminal cases.

Assistant District Attorney N. L. Van Haver appeared and disposed of several cases which had been pending. In the matter of The People vs. Newton Whipple the defendant was given until September 18 to pay the balance of a fine recently imposed. Whipple pleaded guilty to possession of a dangerous weapon and the court imposed a $50 fine and a jail sentence. The jail sentence was suspended. Whipple paid $25 of his fine and his present employer as well as a former employer asked that he be given more time to get together the balance of the money. On recommendation of the district attorney he was given until the opening of the September term of County Court to complete payment to the clerk of the court.

Ralph Decker, who is charged with failure to provide for his minor children, came into court and through his attorney Robert G. Groves stated that he was paying $3 a week. His case was adjourned pending continuation of the payments until September 10 and he will report to the probation officer.

Bernard McDonald, who is also charged with failure to provide, is now making payments and his case was continued.

Anthony Neuville, another of the defendants who is involved in family difficulties, said he was making payments for his family. He was instructed to continue to do so through the probation officer. Nicholas J. Fowler appeared for Neuville. There being no further business for the court Judge Traver adjourned the court to chambers, the jury was discharged and the trial term terminated.

U. S. Culinary Queens Prefer Chinese Food

New York, June 26 (AP)—What do America's culinary queens—the contestants of hickory smoked ham and chicken—a Maryland—seek when they dine out?

Chop suey. Chinese cookery, with plenty of bamboo shoots, received the largest number of votes when 2,000 home economics specialists, here for the annual convention of the American Home Economics Association, visited New York's foreign food haunts last night.

Their second choice was Swedish cookery, and their third, German. Japanese and Russian dishes drew the next largest crowds.

The Chinese restaurant which drew the most guests by its bright lights and bamboo shoots also had the longest dinner: twelve courses. It lasted several hours.

A private Swedish club in an old New York mansion attracted the group second in size with its smorgasbord—an array of appetizers.

Mme. Pearl Violet Metzelthim, who has lived in eleven countries and speaks six languages, and Margaret Kingsley, who is on the staff of a woman's magazine, directed the visitors to foreign restaurants of ten nationalities.

The visiting experts who turned their faces toward chop suey missed the dish with the longest name: Kaymakli ikmek kadayif, an Armenian delicacy—an exotic bread, toasted and soaked in syrup.

Water Safety and Swimming Season

By CLARENCE S. SCHOONMAKER (T. M. C. A. Secretary)

The swimming season is with us again with its toll of drownings. One can scarcely pick up a paper today without seeing in the headlines fatalities caused by either inability of the victim to swim or to the overestimating of his ability. Not infrequently fatalities are due entirely to carelessness on the part of the victim or on the part of those responsible for his safety.

The American Red Cross has done much to promote water safety. Part of the following instructions are taken from Red Cross instructions on Water Front Safety and should be followed at every place where bathing and swimming take place.

1. The bathing place should be chosen so as to combine, if possible, deep water swimming for the experienced swimmers and shallow water for beginners.

2. The area for beginners should be marked off by lines of rope securely anchored and all beginners should be required to stay within that area.

3. Ladders should be placed at the float to permit easy ascent from the water. Great care should be taken that all diving platforms and spring boards are safely situated, and that the surrounding water is clear of all rocks, stumpage, etc., to a depth of 10 feet.

4. A tower eight to twelve feet high should be erected on the shore so as to overlook all areas of the water front.

5. A life boat should be set aside for the purpose of life saving only. Where there is but one life guard this boat should be placed conveniently near his station so that no time will be lost when and if an emergency arises.

6. Ring buoys should be placed at convenient points about the swimming area. They should be inspected frequently to see if the rope is properly coiled and that they are ready for immediate use.

7. First aid equipment should always be available.

8. A set of grappling irons should be included in the equipment.

9. Needless to say, of course, the most valuable part of any life saving equipment is an experienced life guard. This should be a man or woman who is not only a good swimmer but one who has had special training in the art of life saving.

In a series of articles beginning Monday the writer will endeavor to outline a process by which anyone may learn to swim. In these articles only the very fundamentals will be given. In order to become expert, of course, special instruction and much practice is necessary. For the beginner, however, the series which will follow will, if followed closely, make a person capable of caring for himself in the water and greatly add to his pleasure in water sports.

"Perfect Case" Drawn Against CCC Worker

Malone, N. Y., June 26 (AP)—The "perfect case" was drawn up today against Thomas Frederick Showers, 27, accused of the criminal attack and slaying of 14-year-old Cleo Tellstone.

District Attorney Harold W. Main, asserting "I have a perfect case," said he would place a first degree murder charge against the young CCC worker.

He said his prosecution would be based on a signed statement, purporting to be a confession by Showers that he lured the girl into the woods Saturday, attacked her and then crushed her skull with a club.

Added to the statement, the district attorney said, was other evidence which had been gathered since the girl's nude body was found in the woods Sunday by her brother.

He said the weapon used to batter the girl's head—a heavy, 16-inch ash club—had been found a short distance from where the body was discovered.

Showers, whose home is in Syracuse, was held in the county jail for arraignment tomorrow. He said he had been married eight years, but lived with his wife only a year and had been in the CCC at Barnum's Pond for nine months.

Mrs. George T. Tellstone, mother of Cleo and ten other children, was reported in serious condition from a nervous breakdown.

Dionne Still Doubts Face Value of Fame

Corbett, Ont., June 26 (AP)—Orville Dionne, the 24-year-old farmer who said, "I'm the sort of fellow they should put in jail," when told he was the father of quintuplets, apparently feels much the same way about it four weeks after their birth.

In that time the five little girls have become internationally famous. Gifts have been showered upon them along with a contract for their appearance at the Chicago World's Fair.

Dionne doesn't say much but indicates he doesn't consider the arrival of the five altogether a blessing. "What do you think about their birth?" he was asked.

"I don't think much of it," he replied, then added: "Well, what would you think?"

Guest Speaker Over WGV Thomas Jabine, retail sales manager, Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation, will again be the guest speaker on the WGV Farm Forum. Mr. Jabine will be heard on the subject "Farm Electrification Laboratories" Friday evening, June 29, at 8:30. He talks on the Farm Forum hour are always of particular interest to residents of the Hudson Valley.

Watertown Graduates Face Sad Exercises

Watertown, N. Y., June 26 (AP)—With three members of the graduating class dead following a drowning accident in Lake Ontario last night, the commencement exercises of the Watertown High School tomorrow promises to be a sad occasion.

Today the story of how Raymond C. Butterfield, 17, and Robert Case, also 17, turned from trying to save themselves to a vain attempt to rescue Cecilia Kamalaki, 19, after an overboarded dinghy sang 600 feet from shore, was recounted by eye witnesses to the tragedy.

Eight others who were on the boat were rescued. All were members of the graduating class of the high school, taking part in the annual picnic of the class.

The boat did not sink completely and those who maintained their hold on it were rescued by other members of the class who witnessed the tragedy, and soldiers from Madison barracks.

MAN'S HEART RESCUED IN LANCASTER OF EXHAUSTION

Lancaster, Pa., June 26 (AP)—The medical profession keenly interested, kept touch by telephone as George Hampton, 41, continued to improve after an operation in which his heart was lifted from its place, stitched to close a stab wound, and replaced. Hampton, stabbed in the heart Sunday night, was "slightly improved" last night, hospital officials said. They disclosed that physicians from many points were keeping in touch with developments in the unique case by telephone. The stab wound is alleged to have been inflicted by Hampton's housekeeper, Mrs. Martha Stewart. She is in jail, awaiting the outcome of Hampton's wound.

A LITTLE MORE PER GALLON
WILL MEAN 2 OR 3 YEARS MORE WEAR

Low Brothers High Standard House Paint costs little more per gallon than "cheap" paint. But when you paint with it the job lasts four or five years—and often longer, instead of one or two years.

There's lots of "cheap" paint sold—but seldom twice to the same man. One such purchase teaches an expensive lesson.

Using Low Brothers High Standard Paint is true economy. It not only wears for many years, but being easily applied, it cuts down the painter's time and cost; covering more surface, it means fewer gallons to the job. Come in and talk paint with us before you paint your house.

We can place all the facts before you and then you can decide. We can also help you in regard to color schemes.

Johnny Broaca Beats Whitesox, Putting Yankees Back In Lead

By HERBERT W. BARKER.
Associated Press Sports Writer.

The answer to Joe McCarthy's prayer for pitching strength is Johnny Broaca. Yale graduate of a week ago.

This apprentice right-hander's fourth effective pitching job in a row put the New York Yankees back in the American League lead again and gave McCarthy a chance to worry about something else besides his mound staff.

Able supported by Lou Gehrig and other Yankee swarms, Broaca coasted to a 13-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox yesterday although the 19 hits he allowed permitted almost as many as he had permitted himself in three prior appearances.

The bespectacled Yale star's record since he joined the club June 2 shows two victories, including a one-hit shutout, and one defeat, in which he allowed only three hits. Gehrig contributed his 19th homer, a triple, double and single to New York's 15-hit assault yesterday. Not content with his pitching efforts, Broaca equalled Lefty Grove's American League record for a nine-inning game by fanning five times.

The victory sent the Yankees back into first place by four percentage points over the Detroit Tigers, who bowed to the Philadelphia Athletics, 13-11, in a game marked by Jimmie Fox's 19th and 20th homers.

The Boston Red Sox tripped the Cleveland Indians, 6-3, and regained third place. The Indians dropped to fifth, a half game behind the Washington Senators, who won from St. Louis, 8-4.

Giants Trim Cards.

The New York Giants stretched their National League lead to 3½ games by staggering to a 10-7 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. The defeat dropped the Cards into third place, a half game behind the idle Chicago Cubs.

The only other National League game saw Pittsburgh's reviving Pirates beat the Phillies, 7-1, for their fourth victory in succession.

Londos Tosses Browning to Win Heavyweight Wrestling Honors

By EDWARD J. NEIL,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

New York, June 26 (AP)—The wrestling war was over today and high in the seat of the conqueror sat Jimmy Londos, the Greek idol, living example that right always triumphs, that virtue in the end always is rewarded and that a good small man sometimes can beat a big one.

He conquered Jim Browning, big, burly farmer from Verona, Mo., and in this case the villain in the piece, in one hour, ten minutes, and ten seconds of some of the finest wrestling the devotees ever saw in Madison Square Garden's big bowl on Long Island last night. There were 20,000 there, and they paid $40,000 to see the thrashing of a heavyweight champion practically everyone must now accept.

The match began with the 232-pound Browning, recognized here as world champion ever since he beat Strangler Ed Lewis two years ago and London refused to meet him, playing the part of the big bully, while "Jeemy," as he's known in every side-arm restaurant from this coast to the other, was the little hero.

It went thus for a full hour with Browning torturing the squat, but handsome 185-pound veteran. Occasionally the 38-year-old Greek would rally.

But it was getting late and virtue will wait just so long. Like a gallant stag at bay, going to his death but going gamely, Londos reared his black curly head and plunged forward. He caught Browning completely off guard, picked him up with a crotch hold, and slammed down the Missouri farmer.

It was Browning's turn then to reel drunkenly about the enclosure, and Londos never swerved. The handsome Greek threw the champion first to the patrons grinning in from the left side of the ring, then to the patrons on the right.

Absolutely impartial, he picked Browning up and hurled him to the south, then to the north. Browning was putty in the hands of the avenger. Londos picked him up again, did a kind of a jiggling gawdsky around and around with Browning on his shoulders—then down came the champion in the final crash, inert, lifeless. Carefully Londos spread him out on his shoulder blades with a double arm hold. White-haired George Bothner, the referee, slapped him on the back, and once more Londos was king of the realm.

Jim was king once before. He beat Dick Shikat in Philadelphia after the latter had been crowned champion by the National Boxing Association. He was deprived of his title when he refused to meet Strangler Lewis in New York. Browning beat Lewis and became champion. Claimants like Gus Sonnenberg and Ed Don George came and went.

But Londos always drew the biggest crowds. He's champion again, and all's right with the wrestling world.

(By The Associated Press.)

Lou Gehrig, Yankees—Hit homer, triple, double and single as the Yankees defeated the Chicago White Sox, 13 to 2.

Jimmy Fox, Athletics—Collected his 19th and 20th homers of the year to provide the winning margin in the Athletics 13 to 11 victory over Detroit.

Pie Traynor and Bill Swift, Pirates—The former drove in two runs to give Swift a well-earned 7-1 decision over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Mel Ott and Carl Hubbell, Giants—Ott hit two singles in a big 7-run second inning as Hubbell held the Cardinals in check to register his first victory over them this year 10 to 7.

Earl Whitehill, Washington—Scattered the Browns' 10 hits well enough to give Washington a 6-4 victory even with Rogers Hornsby playing right field for St. Louis. Gordon (Dusty) Rhodes, Red Sox—Outpitched three Cleveland hurlers to win 6 to 3.

White of Texas U Leads In College Golf Battle

Cleveland, June 24 (AP)—Yale and the East braced themselves today against an avalanche of shots from mid-continent, the South and the West in the struggle for national intercollegiate golf honors.

Ed White, 24-year-old junior at Texas U. and southwest champion, went into the second and last 18-hole qualifying round with a par 72 to lead 118 college linksmen.

Yale and Michigan are locked at 200 for the first 18-hole qualifying round, with the team championship depending on the four-man totals reached at the end of the qualifier tonight.

Notre Dame and Georgia Tech are close behind, tied at 211, and Texas is hanging on at 213.

Not since the tournament started in 1897 has the team trophy gone outside the East, Yale's leading taking it 19 times, including the last three.

The scramble to get into the roster of 22 qualifiers for the individual championships, in which medal play starts tomorrow, found five combatants from all sections of the country two strokes behind White.

A. F. Kammer, Jr., of Princeton, Johnny Banks of Notre Dame, Roy W. Ryden of U. C. L. A.; Charlie Kocis, Michigan's pride and Big Ten champion, and William Ward, Syracuse's lone aspirant, were in second place after the initial bombardment.

Scully and Murphy did the teasing for the Provisioners, allowing 6 hits between them.

Following is the score by innings: U. P. A. . . . . 0 0 0 1 0 1 0—2 Diers A. S. . . . . 0 0 0 0 1 5 x—6

The following games have been booked for the Diers A. S.: Thursday night at Block Park, 7 Ward Dams.

Wrestling Models.

The Headlock is no way I'd choose
To try to chase away the blues;
If I were quite depressed and fat
I hardly think I'd seek a mat
And hire some human vice-like kit
To squeeze my skull until it split.

The Teahold, with its warping trend,
Is not the way I'd pick to spend
A happy, cheerful afternoon
In January or in June.
While twisted toes may cap the poit,
I'd rather wiggle mine myself.

The Scissors may be worth a run.
But I can think of better fun
Than letting Browning play the snake
Unto my intestine inner ache.
The while he wraps his legs around
My cracking ribs on mat or ground.

Though here and there I strike a scale,
I do not get the wrestler's kale;
But I had rather keep instead
My uncracked toes and ribs and head;
For when through working I prefer
To have my bones just where they were.

The Big Tennis Show.

While the United States may not have any extended chance of moping up at Wimbledon, or later in the Davis Cup show, the performances of three men will be worth watching.

This trio includes Lester Stoeffen, the redwood of the west, Frank Shields and Sidney Wood. On their better days these three tennis players are capable of big deeds. Wood is the soundest and the most consistent of the three, but Stoeffen and Shields have certain qualities that are not to be overlooked—when they happen to be geared up.

None of the three rates with Perry or Crawford—when the Englishman and the Australian are primed. But Crawford hasn't been the all-conquering star of 1933 when he won three out of four big championships, and went to the final in the fourth.

Stoeffen has shown amazing flashes and amazing lapses. Shields is a hard fighter with ground stroke flaws. But one of the two may happen to hit the right week. Wood has a better chance than either Stoeffen or Shields.

A New Mandarin.

When it comes to slipping the chapter of wild apple blossoms to the best of the new mandarins of baseball, Mickey Cochrane gets the call. Cochrane moves out of the debutante class to rate with the veteran leaders.

Early in April his Tigers were given little chance above fifth place. Lack of outfield strength was his main weakness. This weakness still exists, but in spite of the same, Mickey has had his Tigers clawing and scrapping around in front all summer with the half-mile post only a few steps away.

Cochrane and Hornsby have both turned out the best jobs of any year. Both have been facing heavy barriers that had to be broken down. The main point is that both have had hustling, hard-working teams, which gave 100 per cent of what they had to offer. That always carries the ball a long, long way.

The final showdown should come between the Yankees and the Senators. They have the better all around strength. Whatever happens later on, the Tigers and the Browns have been two of the season's biggest hits. (Copyright, 1934, by GRANTLAND RICE.)

New Ventilating System For American Legion Bouts Friday

Those who attend the American Legion boxing bouts Friday night, June 27, will have the benefit of the new ventilating system, assuring comfort and they look on at the program in comfort.

The Legion boxing committee, headed by Meyer Kaplan, who goes to see that the customers are pleased, took up the matter of the ventilation question with Mayor Gerald J. Heinselman, who has promised to have the system working for the Friday card of scraps.

"We must keep the customers cool," said Meyer. "In fact, keep them satisfied in every respect." The last card of scraps went over well and all our patrons seemed pleased. Now our aim is to keep them that way. The bouts for Friday look good and I think should be a pleasure to watch as the others are. Matchmaker Joe Kelly, with the ventilating system working, holding the temperature at about 70 degrees, and a good card of scraps, all indications point to a grand and glorious evening."

So changing it around from the way Lectionnaire Kaplan put it, there should be a good time for all with a "hot" card of bouts and a cool auditorium.

The card has been well advertised. There are two star eight rounders on it. One will bring together that sensational lightweight, Joe Leone, the only boy who beat Leonard "Young" Zarzanno when that pugilist was at the height of his career, and Benny Brostoff, the rugged little Canadian, who came to the United States several years ago and knocked out some of the best boys in the National Guard. He trades leather with the best of them, having fought Vittorio Tamagami, Italian star in his American debut at Fox Hamilton last week. Brostoff suffered a cut over his left eye and could not answer the bell for the fifth round.

Brostoff wants another crack at Tamagami and probably will get it if he gets by Leone. Joe, however, is a barrier that should be hard for Benny as proven in his workouts here with Peter Hayes when the Saengerite contender for the welterweight title trained at the Elks Club for his match with Ernest Torres. Leone has been working with Tony Cannoneri for the past several days helping the Marlborough Italian to get in shape for his clash with Frankie Kille. If Tony is successful he will be in Leone's corner here.

Julie Katz, who is to meet Artie Spiedermann in the other eight rounder, is at the Cannoneri camp, too. He has given the former lightweight champion some good work-outs, just as he did Peter Hayes, and should be able to stretch his string of victories to 14 when he tangles with Spiedermann, says Cannoneri. Tony will second Katz as well as Leone. Katz has won 13 out of 14 bouts, losing one to Lou Salica. Prior to entering the professional ring, he bagged two championships in the Golden Gloves.

The rest of the card, making up the 32 scheduled rounds of boxing, consists of a six rounder between Clem Smith, West Hurley heavy weight, and Vic Neilson of New York; a sixer between Freddie Raymond and Irving Eldridge and a four between Rostler Parra, Chile, and Bezy Thomas of Africa.

Downtown Twilight League Playoff This Evening, 6:15

This evening at 6:15 on the diamond at Hasbrouck Park, the first half championship of the Downtown Twilight Baseball League will be played between the Hercules and Rencio A. C. tied for the lead, fight it out before a crowd that is expected to surpass any gathering that has turned out for a league contest to date.

Tentative Lineups:
Hercules—Lennan, rf; Keator, cf; Sedgewick, ss; Krum, 1b; Messinger, c; Flemming, 2b; Schussler, 1b; Carpio, 3b; Flemming, p.
Rencio—Peterson, ss; Niles, 3b; E. Best, rf; Van Etten, 1b; Houghaling, 2b; Rider, c; Mannello, 1b.

Dullin, cf; Thomas, p.
Because he has been turning in some good performances and on account of a sore arm with which Flemming has been bothered, Thomas is favored to be the winning pitcher. However, he may be turned back by Flemming, who is anxious to chalk up a victory for the Rencios. This club was the only one to defeat the Powdermen during the first half of the league schedule.
Decision to play the game to settle the first half leadership was made Monday evening at a meeting in the city hall. Judge Bernard A. Culliton, president of the league, presided. At the same meeting it was voted to start the second half of the league schedule on July 10.

Minasian's Fruiteers to Play Crystal Gardeners Tonight

Tonight at 6:30 at the Athletic Field, this week's schedule in the Industrial Baseball League opens with a contest between Minasian's Fruiteers and the Crystal Gardeners. Indication is that there will be plenty of good baseball and that there will be a crowd on hand to witness the contest.

Dewey Van Buren is slated to pitch for the Gardeners with McElrath as his catcher. Andy Celuch will toss 'em over for the Fruiteers with Zadany as his battery mate.

Van Buren, who is enjoying a good season, recently fanned 13 batters and will endeavor to keep up his record this evening. Celuch is anxious to beat Dewey and will be at his best for the diamond war.

Tentative lineups for the clubs are:
Fruiteers—Murphy 2b; Astalos, cf; Purvis, ss; Tice, rf; Zadany, c; Kopper, 1b; Minasian, 3b; M. Tiano, 1b; and Celuch, p.
Gardeners—L. Sickles, ss; Welsh, cf; C. Jansen, rf; Van Derzee, 1b; D. McElrath, 1b; Berinato, 3b; J. McElrath, c; A. Jansen, 2b; Van Buren, p.

Sailors From The Talbot Will Play Ball With Police Team

The biggest event of the present baseball season, or in fact of any season, will take place Wednesday evening at the Athletic Field.

For the first time in history, a team from the United States Navy will be in Kingston and their opponents will be none other than Chief J. Allan Wood's Kingston Police.

Starting time of the contest is 6:15 and expectations are that it will draw one of the biggest turnouts ever seen at a game here.

Having read the particulars about the game in the foregoing paragraphs, short and to the point so that no one misses the time and place, readers anxious in knowing how the two service teams came to be matched should read on.

Pete Kerestman, one of the busiest bluecoats Chief Wood has on his list, was detailed to patrol duty on the dock near the U. S. Destroyer yesterday and in his congenial manner made friends with the officers and crew. He was not there an hour before he knew them all.

Being an old soldier, Pete got right down to talking business with the gobs. The conversation between him and several blue jackets drifted on to the athletics and the recreation they afford the service man. A bright idea, and Pete got lots of 'em, struck the patrolman.

Why couldn't the cops play the sailors?

Kerestman put the proposition up to the sailors and they went to Lieutenant Matt Kelly, athletic officer of the ship for advice. He thought the idea a splendid one and said the game was on as far as he was concerned. He rounded up his baseball players and went to Dock Park for practice.

Pete Kerestman communicated with Chief Wood on the proposition and the chief giving his consent referred him to Sergeant James V. Simpson, his boss of the baseball team.

Sergeant Simpson ever ready for a game rounded up his team and agreed them to be in shape for Wednesday evening. "This will give us an opportunity to tune up for that Newburgh game July 26," he said. "We have to beat those fellows from the Billy

City this summer and a win over the sailors will do us good."

From his tone, Sergeant Simpson is sure his men will take the sailors over. But he shouldn't be too confident, even though the bluejackets don't get much chance to practice because of their cruises. Lieutenant Kelly boasts of a very good team and things might not turn out so well for the night stick wielders.

The last game the sailors from the Talbot played was in Panama and they won by a big score.

The police haven't done any toasting since last summer when they hooked up twice with Newburgh, losing both games. These contests were pleasing to watch despite the defeats for Kingston. The battle with the sailors should be twice as good.

Tentative lineups are:
Sailors—Montano, c; Kelly, p; MacKhaugh, 1b; Penninger, 2b; Stanton, ss; Leon, 3b; Zabana, rf; Haynes, cf; Richardson, 1b.

Police—Kerestman or Reyley, 2b; Straley, rf; Stout, p; W. Leonard, ss; Sammons, c; Bowers, cf; Wes Cramer, 1b; E. Leonard, 1b; T. McGrane, 2b; R. Stewart, 1b.

Umpires will be Bill Schwab and "Sergeant" Jimmy Gorman.

Because of the game the Industrial League contest scheduled for Wednesday has been postponed.

There will be no admission, but a collection will be taken to help defray the expenses incurred by the citizens committee formed to arrange entertainment programs for the sailors.

Thursday night, whether they win or lose tomorrow, the sailors will play a game with the Marylanders at Hasbrouck Park, starting at 6:15 o'clock.

Indian Titles
Though it is not uncommon to speak of the daughter of an Indian chief, such as Pocahontas, as a princess, the chief himself as a king, such as King Philip, and the wife of a chief as a queen, as Queen Weetamoo, those titles of courtesy can hardly be compared to the titles of the hereditary nobility of Europe. The chief's title of office was not hereditary, though it usually happened that the old chief was succeeded by a member of his family. The United States Constitution prohibits the granting of titles of nobility in this country.

INITIALS

"I have fallen naturally into the way of initials," said Farmer Corns, "especially when I tell my troubles."

"What's worrying you now?" "I'm waiting to hear from A. A. A. I wear hunting with B. B. shot and the doctor told me to get 20cc of insulin to cure my wound. My daughter married a D. D. and is learning a piano piece which she plays in the key of G. With a few exclamations, I could go right on up the alphabet."

The Wrong Location
A man was eagerly fingering the dials on his radio, when suddenly he cried out, as a twinge of pain struck him:

"Man—Gad! I believe I've got sciatica."

His Wife—There you go. I don't know why you keep bothering with those foreign stations. You never understand them when you get them.

ADOPTED

Tom—My ancestors were all people of brains.
Mary—You must have been disinherited.

Big Idea
"What is your opinion of money?" "It's the big idea of civilization," said Mr. Dustin Stax.

"Is it only an idea?" "Oh no. Some of its most practical forms are its humblest expressions. For instance, a plugged nickel goes right on buying things, while millions of dollars may be found to exist only in imagination."

Missed His Pal
The director of a city zoo was on his vacation when he received the following communication from his assistant: "Everything all right, except that the chimpanzee seems to be pining for a companion. What shall we do until you return?"

Managed Emotion
"Do you ever lose your temper in debate?" "Not if I can help it," answered Senator Sorghum. "It's always liable to weaken your argument if you permit a righteous indignation to sound like a personal grievance."

Consistent Hostility
"What is your reason for wanting the government to take possession of the railroads?" "Oh," replied Mr. Growcher, "no particular reason except that I don't think the railroads would like it."

No Familiarity
Counsel (cross-examining prejudiced witness)—I suggest that Mrs. Giggins is anathema to you.
Witness—Then you suggest wrong. It's only my friends I call by their Christian names.

CHANCE TO WIN
Mrs. Brown—Clarence DeBroke has had dreadful luck at bridge lately.
Mrs. Smith (eager)—You don't say? Dear me! I must invite him out before it changes.

No Got It—Bad
Jake—That dollar you gave me yesterday was counterfeit. What do you mean by that?
Jack—Well, didn't you say to me "I want a dollar and I want it bad?"

Forwent Words
Speed Fiend (as he slowed down a bit)—Gosh! Don't you feel glad you're alive?
Timid Passenger—Glad isn't the word—I'm amazed.

Dumb Answer
Burger (to mate, as telephone rings)—You, you'd better answer it, but speak as if you ad creating dress ad.

CONDUCT THEM, PLEASE!

It happened at the quadrangle truck meet at the University of Chicago, involving Michigan, Northwestern and Chicago.

The finale of the 70-yard high hurdles and just been run off and the judges and timers were clustered about to place the finalists and to get the time for the event.

Most of the newspaper men in the infield were clamoring for results. One reporter, rushing up to the bedside of officials, shouted: "What time? What time?"

Whereupon one of the officials about-mindedly pulled forth his watch and replied: "Four o'clock," as his listeners guffawed.—Chicago News.

PRETENDING

"Does your wife ever let you have your way in anything?" "Yes, but she doesn't know it. You see whenever I want to do anything I pretend I want to do the exact opposite."

Miss Spender—What am I reading, papa? A dream book, papa! I dreamed last night that a foreign nobleman and an American millionaire were fighting a duel for my hand, and I wished to see what it signified!

Papa Spender—Oh, ho! So that's it! Well, I dreamed last night that the butcher and the coal man were grappling in the trenches to see which attacked the piano first! Take a slant at what, that means, Marie!

Having Fun With Teacher
Teacher—William, use the word "bewitching" in a sentence.
William—I'll be switching you in a minute.

Teacher—That's terrible! Now, you, Robert, a sentence containing "officials."
Bobby—When my two cousins fell in the lake they bellowed, "Oh, dah us out!"

His Answer
One afternoon in Hyde Park a speaker, having bored his audience for some time, was tackled by one of his patient listeners.

"On such occasions," he replied in pompous manner, "I always ask myself a question—"

From the back of the crowd came a voice: "And I bet you get a silly answer!"—Baltimore Sun.

MONEY TALKS
"I'm celebrating," announced Mrs. Jarvis one sunny morning two months later as she dropped in on her daughter. "I got my dividend check from the Dome mines and we could do a little shopping, have lunch at Bullock's and go to the matinee."

Susie raised a somewhat tense face from a page of figures. "I don't know," she said slowly. "I wanted to get this thing done today and off my mind."

"Good heavens," said her mother. "Are you still struggling with that budget?"

"I'm not going to give it up till I get it," said Susie stubbornly. "Last month I spent too much and made it up out of my own allowance, and this month I've spent $12.43 more than I had to begin with and I have $1.55 left."

"Well, my goodness," said her mother. "I don't see how anyone can expect to do better than that."

"It ought to be even," said Susie wearily. "It should balance. This," Susie indicated a column, "is the food allowance. We set aside 30 per cent for that and it comes to $45.00 a month."

"That's a dollar and a half a day, isn't it?" said her mother. "Well, why don't you just put down a dollar and a half for each day. That would make that column come out right."

Susie raised rather startled eyes to her mother. "I wonder if it would," she muttered.

"Of course it would," said Mrs. Jarvis impatiently. "And if you figure out what the right amount should be for all the other items and put it down it couldn't help but be right. And that would save all this bother of trying to remember and keeping track."

Susie excitedly seized a sheet of paper and began copying figures. "Why didn't I think of that," she cried. "Mother you're a wonder."

It was the work of a short half hour to copy a new budget with its precalculated figures. "And how much better it looks, too," said her mother with satisfaction, "with the rows all alike."

The Cat Family
A teacher asked her class to name different members of the "cat" family. Nobody answered, till at last one little girl raised her hand.

"Well?" said the teacher encouragingly. "Father cat, mother cat, and three little kittens."

Helping Out
Young Man—Do you know the difference between a taxi and a trolley?
Girl—No.
Young Man—Good! Then you'll take a trolley.

Susie Balances the Budget

"WHAT this family needs is a budget," said Sam graciously. The monthly battle of the bills was over, and Susie in a state of exhaustion reclined on the couch with Sammy on the fourth rug.

"Everyone must choose and judge values in money matters," he went on. "It teaches discrimination, trains one in a sense of values and is good for mental development. It would be good for you."

"Then I won't do it," said Susie stubbornly. "I'm not going to undertake any more things that are good for me because they just lead to nothing but grief. When I did those setting up exercises I sprained my knee, and it was in that class in home economics that I met that horrid Mrs. Budlong who bought things on my charge account and never paid for them."

"Now Sue, don't be a little fatted. You're not likely to sprain yourself putting figures down in a book, and if you developed the practical side of your nature more you wouldn't be so likely to be gyped by your friends."

"I don't like figures," Susie objected.

"This isn't a geometrical theorem, Honey. You can add, can't you?" "Not long rows," said Susie firmly. "They never come out twice alike."

The battle of the budget was joined, but in the end, Sammy, who was a diplomat as well as an orator, prevailed, for he had Susie persuaded that budgeting was one of life's real pastimes.

"It really isn't any trouble at all," said Susie, displaying the neat little leather covered book to her mother. "You just keep track of what you spend."

"But what for?" insisted Mrs. Jarvis. "Why bother?"

"Well," said Susie doubtfully, "Sammy says then you know where your money goes."

"You know where it goes anyway, if you count your change," said Mrs. Jarvis impatiently.

It was with some pride that Susie displayed her book to Sammy at the end of the first month. "Great work, old girl," was his comment as he surveyed the neat work and added to talk with what seemed to Susie lightning speed. "You see, you're beginning to get results already. Most of the time before your allowance has been gone at the end of the month, and now you have $22.70 left over."

"Oh, but I haven't," objected Susie. "I've spent it all and had to borrow $10 from my personal allowance."

Sammy sighed heavily and girded up his loins for the battle of endeavoring to demonstrate statistically that Susie had failed to keep track of all her expenditures and that it was absolutely necessary to do so.

"I'm celebrating," announced Mrs. Jarvis one sunny morning two months later as she dropped in on her daughter. "I got my dividend check from the Dome mines and we could do a little shopping, have lunch at Bullock's and go to the matinee."

Susie raised a somewhat tense face from a page of figures. "I don't know," she said slowly. "I wanted to get this thing done today and off my mind."

"Good heavens," said her mother. "Are you still struggling with that budget?"

"I'm not going to give it up till I get it," said Susie stubbornly. "Last month I spent too much and made it up out of my own allowance, and this month I've spent $12.43 more than I had to begin with and I have $1.55 left."

"Well, my goodness," said her mother. "I don't see how anyone can expect to do better than that."

"It ought to be even," said Susie wearily. "It should balance. This," Susie indicated a column, "is the food allowance. We set aside 30 per cent for that and it comes to $45.00 a month."

"That's a dollar and a half a day, isn't it?" said her mother. "Well, why don't you just put down a dollar and a half for each day. That would make that column come out right."

It was the work of a short half hour to copy a new budget with its precalculated figures. "And how much better it looks, too," said her mother with satisfaction, "with the rows all alike."

Redemption of Ingratitude
"Republicans are ungrateful," said the ready-made philosopher.

"Perhaps," replied Mr. Chuggins; "but if you want a taste of real ingratitude, take a party of friends out for a motor car ride and listen to their sarcastic remarks if you happen to break down."

The Cat Family
A teacher asked her class to name different members of the "cat" family. Nobody answered, till at last one little girl raised her hand.

"Well?" said the teacher encouragingly. "Father cat, mother cat, and three little kittens."

Helping Out
Young Man—Do you know the difference between a taxi and a trolley?
Girl—No.
Young Man—Good! Then you'll take a trolley.

"What did Sammy have to say about the budget?" asked her mother a few days later.

"Well, to tell the truth, he didn't have hardly anything to say. He just seemed at a loss for words," said Susie. "You know, Mother, I think Sammy just wanted to see if I could figure that out for myself. We aren't going to bother with a budget any more," she went on, "and I'm glad of it, for it's a kind of nuisance. But there's no point, really, in keeping on with a thing once you've mastered it."

COTTEKILL

Cottekill, June 26.—The Sunday school of the Reformed Church will not hold its regular Sunday school classes during the months of July and August. The superintendent proclaimed a vacation beginning July 1. All pupils and teachers are requested to return on September 9 to resume regular attendance. It is earnestly hoped that this vacation will be beneficial to all concerned.

Mrs. Oscar Beach has not, as was reported previously, resigned as teacher in the Sunday school. All will be glad to hear that she will resume teaching at the fall session.

The annual Sunday school picnic will be held some time in August. Final announcements will be made later. The Sunday school had voted on sending $10 to the Missionary Society. Motion was made by Mrs. Sachar and seconded by Mrs. Burt Pine, treasurer.

The closing exercises of the Cottekill Public School were held recently. The pupils all dressed in their best did splendidly and very well in song and dialogues. "Little Miss Muffet" was portrayed by Mary Edna Beach and Gloria Phyllis Sachar sang her solo very prettily. Victor H. Sachar, Jr., played "America" so well that Mrs. Kennedy, principal, called on the audience to stand up and sing while he played. Father Marlier of the Rosendale Episcopal Church, guest of Mrs. Leroy Styles, gave a very short but touching talk of encouragement to those graduating, who were: Anna Thorpe, Anna Mae Oakley, Gus Connen, George Tompkins, L. Margaret Hinkley and Charles Clippel. Diplomas were presented to those graduating by the president of trustees, Leroy Styles, after the exercises ice cream was sold. A good time was enjoyed by all, after which Mrs. Kennedy, principal, and Miss Ruth Basfen, teacher, received the well wishes of all present for a restful and well earned vacation.
